To-day will often be a matter of ... that cholera should follow up one week's fever to a certain point, and then cross to the other bank. The Globe's correspondent claims that a geological map will show, in every such instance, that the disease and the limestone formation were coeval; that when one quit the other did, and that it caused the stream to follow ... more limestone. Xenia is a ... great lime bearing belt. Last year, 100,... 200 or 300 inhabitants by the cholera in one year. Sandusky, Ohio, suffered severely from the cholera in 1833; the town was almost depopulated; it is situated on what the people call rotten limestone. On the other hand Vevay, an Ohio town, shut up her wells in 1832, and used rain water, and not a cholera death occurred in the place.

But enough of facts. The present epidemic clings unaccountably to the limestone districts of Kentuky and Tennessee. Will any one say that, apart from its limestone, East Tennessee is not singularly blessed with natural advantages of health and freedom from epidemics?

LETTER FROM COBB COUNTY.

Progress as Sinceths War—Acworth: Its Factories, Merchants, Etc.

Editors Constitution: Col. T. P. Saffold, of Madison, in conversation with me a few days since, in speaking of the agricultural interests of the State, said it was his impression Cobb county had made since the war, as great, if not the greatest progress in an agricultural point of view, of any county in the State; that her people had come nearer meeting the requirements of the times, of the present condition of labor, and that though her land was mostly poor, her people had raised better crops and had a better class of stock than any county he was familiar with. In many respects I felt the county in which he resides—Morgan—was entitled to first place, yet my many friends in Cobb made his generous opinion pleasing, and now confess that the facts which have been given me to-day by H. J. Harrison, Esq., the careful tax receiver of this county, certainly gives good foundation for Col. S.'s opinion.

He informed me that the increased value of

THE TAXABLE PROPERTY,

of this county this year would be largely in excess of last year, and greater than that of any other year since the war—that it would amount to about three millions. While he could not give me the exact amount for last year, but it was not far from $3,400,000. The property of this place is assessed at over $900,000. Over $200,000 has been expended within the past six years in public buildings. The dwellings are substantial and most of them of pleasing design. The business houses are fully equal to the demand without any unnecessary outlay of capital to make them showy.

The Baptist people of this place and surrounding country have just completed forty-four by sixty, and twenty feet between the floor and ceiling. On next Sunday it is to be dedicated. Several residences are being erected. Mr. Nickolas is making a new addition to his sale stable of over 100 feet in length. He now has two large yards and considerable stable room. He tells me that over 250 horses and mules were marketed from his premises the past season, and that the demand for stock has increased for several years, and he thinks it will be still greater the coming season.

AN ELEGANT BRICK CHURCH,

The Masonic fraternity of this vicinity numbers over one hundred members, and they have a large and pleasant lodge room.

The new merchants'

BRICK FLOURING MILL

is a first-class affair; it has three run of stone and a capacity of making one hundred barrels of flour a day. The leading merchants are S. Lemon & Co., Autry & Cooper, Phillips, Perkerson & Co., Tanner, Putnum & Co., etc. They keep large stocks, sell a heap of goods and take THE CONSTITUTION.

Desolation of Shelbyville and other Tennessee Towns.

Special Dispatches to The Constitution.

CHATTANOOGA, June 30, 1873.

A great many are complaining to-day of diarrhœa and other lesser bowel complaints that usually follow after cholera. But there were only three new cases of real cholera to-day, and only three deaths so far as reported.

Coal tar was burned on Friday night in liberal profusion by the city authorities. Immense volumes of black smoke rose from every quarter of the city.

The Banner urges an appropriation sufficient to bring to the city free-stone water. Water that is "almost free-stone" can be obtained at Stone's river, six miles from the city, and pure free-stone water is found at Caney Fork, 45 miles distant.

A Nashville physician told Wm. Way that beans were harmless if well cooked and well seasoned with red pepper. The Way family tried them, and before night a five-year-old child was violently attacked with cholera.

All of the 373 convicts in the penitentiary have been more less affected with the disease. The cabinet makers and carpenters suffered the most.

A Large Conflagration in Thomasville.

Special to The Constitution.

ALBANY, June 30th, 1873.

I am glad that you are able to correct the statement made by the Albany News relative to the cholera in Atlanta. The statement came to me as a fact, but a reference to the private letter shows it to be a rumor only of four cases on Sunday, the 22d. I hope that you will escape, and shall rely upon your promise to report faithfully.
